Man Arrested In Connection With Sacrilege

Christ Church Cathedral
Invaded by Fanatic Vandal

A quiet, 55-year-old Victoria man, Joseph Szedel of 840 Johnson Street, was arrested by city police yesterday in connection with the early Monday morning destruction of $4,000 worth of Christ Church Cathedral prayer books and other property.

A fanatical attack against organized religion occurred early Monday morning when church property was burned and other things destroyed. Police said they had a statement that termed the damage "the work of God."

Police reported a mobster in the church guest book asking for "piveness"—"I have harmed you unjustly for Jesus' sake" and asking officials not to call the police.

Szedel was arrested by Acting Detective Ray Matland late yesterday afternoon at Szedel's one-room cabin in the red frame tenement on Johnson Street.

Police believe the sacrilege was committed by someone who attended the Sunday evening service at the cathedral and then stayed in the balcony until after the church had been swept out and locked up.

Police believe the sacrilege was committed by someone who attended the Sunday evening service at the cathedral and then stayed in the balcony until after the church had been swept out and locked up.

The destruction apparently occurred between 9 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 a.m. Monday when authorities discovered a pile of burning prayer books in the church garden.

Questioned by police yesterday, Szedel seemed calm but occasionally burst into passages of religious fervor, quoting from a Bible which he held.

BIBLE UNHARMED
Police say the person responsible for the damage touched nothing which was purely Biblical, such as copies of the New Testament, but concentrated destructive efforts on prayer books, pamphlets and various memorial books given to the church in memory of Bishop George Hills, first bishop of B.C.

Many of the books had pages torn out or notations penciled in the margins declaring contents "false."

A figure of the Christ Child had been broken. Very Rev. Dean G. R. Calvert said another very valuable statue of Jesus had been removed for repairs only the previous day.

Notations in the prayer book margins were written in Biblical language in defense of the action. The words indicated that the man was against organized prayer and the using of words which someone else had written. People, he wrote, should pray for themselves in their own words.

RELIGIOUS DEBATE
Dean Calvert said yesterday after the police action he knew Szedel who had often come to his office to debate religion.

The destruction was first discovered by cathedral engineer E. M. Stevenson when he noticed a pamphlet table bare of the usual contents and new racks stripped of prayer books.

Detective Matland said a church candle had been used by the vandal to find his way around the darkened church and to ignite the pile of prayer books which had been stacked about 30 feet from the building.

BURNED CANDLE
The candle, he said, was burned to a stump, indicating a stay in the church of about eight or 10 hours.

Police said they were informed the act of destruction was on "God's instructions."

Dean Calvert said he had ordered 400 new prayer books for this Sunday's services, but asked that members of the congregation bring their own prayer books.

Mr. Stevenson was at the church earlier than usual Monday morning as the day is commemorated as the Feast of the Transfiguration of Our Lord.

Dean Calvert said he believed the feast day had nothing to do with the acts of destruction.

Alderman Frank Mulliner, committee chairman, and Alderman Aubrey Kent expressed belief that such a plant might pay for itself in a short time.

Mr. Fraser told the fire wardens that the big mills could cut smoke emission to an absolute minimum, but small mills find difficulty in burning excess fuel.

Mr. Fraser said under-catchers devices could be installed at high cost in chimneys.

BY-LAW WITH TEETH
Alderman Mulliner said the city must have an anti-smoke by-law with teeth in it "in case we have to use it."

Mr. Fraser agreed drastic measures would result in success.

He is to be given a draft of the city's new anti-smoke by-law to study.

Forest Flames Leap Towards Prospect Lake

Blaze Leaps Through Trees Toward 50 Homes at Lake

B.C. Forest Service officials last night said they didn't know whether the raging forest fire at Prospect Lake was under control or not.

At least 50 Prospect Lake homes are threatened if the southwesterly wind continues. Driven by the 25-mile-an-hour breeze, the fire was leaping from tree-top to tree-top straight for the populated area at the lake.

The fire started Sunday morning south of Maltby Lake near Munn's Road. By 5 p.m. it had spread over 88 acres and cast a pall of smoke across the Greater Victoria area. Fire-fighters believed it would be blazing over 350 acres by this morning.

B.C. Forest Service officials said yesterday the fire was the worst now burning in the entire forest district comprising Vancouver Island and a large mainland sector. By last night at least 150 men had been battling the blaze along with bulldozers and pumps.

DESPERATE BATTLE
There was no stopping the inferno. Forest service officials, volunteers and members of the Saanich fire department battled desperately all day yesterday and most of last night to stem the flames.

Twice they thought the fire was beaten and twice the wind-fanned blaze proved them wrong. Racing through under-dry underbrush it headed from Munn's Road north toward Maltby Lake. F. B. Ward, who owns a cottage on the lake, left Sunday night. He returned yesterday.

Friends and relatives of Major H. Cuthbert Holmes packed their baggage and prepared to evacuate the Holmes cottage. The forest service threw in 40 men, so they stayed.

Around to the west of the fire, on Munn's Road, Chief Forest Ranger Jack Greenhouse said the fire had been ringed by two bulldozers but a wind-came-up later Sunday afternoon and "she exploded."

Ernest Bukin and his two sons, Ernest Jr. and Harold, and their families managed to escape. Bulldozers ringed their homes with a fire-break to stop the flames.

However, yesterday morning a fresh wind off the Strait of Juan de Fuca fanned the flames into renewed terror.

Fire-fighters used Munn's Road as a fire break past the Bukins' homes, but it was a wasted effort.

BACKFIRE WILD
A backfire was lighted only to run wild under a freshening wind. The flames leaped the road and ate into green timber to the west.

On the other side of the fire toward Prospect Lake the situation was even more desperate. Fire crews used bulldozers to ring the blaze and water was pumped from Maltby Lake to dampen down the fire guard.

But the fire would not be controlled. North and toward Prospect Lake it crowned through treetops 50 feet in the air. Fire-fighters scurried to safety.

It was all in a day's work for William Smith of Thetis Lake Road. At the controls of another bulldozer, he ignored the fire and yanked his machine against a blazing tree. It fell with a shower of sparks, making room for the fire-break.

DAMASCUS, Syria, Aug. 6 (Reuters).—President Hashem el Atassi has asked former Premier Hassan Makim to form a new cabinet. It was announced today.

Ridgway Rejects Red Alibi

TOKYO, Aug. 7 (Tuesday, INS).—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today refused to accept Communist explanations for the Reds' flagrant violation of the Korean truce zone's pledged neutrality. He told the Communists he was in doubt that the violation by armed Red soldiers last Saturday was of an accidental nature.

Communist commanders were warned that any failure to neutralize Kaesong completely "will be interpreted as a deliberate move on your part to terminate the armistice negotiations."

He made it clear he stands ready to break off the conference indefinitely unless the Communists give ironclad assurance that they will keep the Kaesong conference site neutralized.

WITHHOLD DELEGATION

Until he gets such satisfactory assurance, Ridgway continued to withhold his true delegation from resumption of Korean armistice talks he broke off Sunday.

Ridgway left the next move up to the Reds.

ORDERED TO COMPLY

His message, broadcast by all available radio channels in English and later in Korean and Chinese, began by stressing that the Communists said they once again had ordered their Kaesong guards to comply with neutralization regulations.

Ridgway said: "I have received and noted contents of your message of 6 August. You state that orders have again been issued to your Kaesong area guards to adhere strictly to the regulation that no armed guards would enter the conference area, in order that incidents similar to that of 4 August will not occur again."

Arms Budget Takes Slash

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (C).—The House of Representatives appropriations committee today chopped $1,542,808,500 off President Truman's requested military budget but still left the sum at a record for peace time—$36,062,405,890.

The committee, in submitting its recommendations, made it clear this is only a first installment on funds for all the armed services for the year ending next June 30.

It said a huge outlay is needed "to create sufficient power to prevent disaster in the event war is forced upon us."

U.S. Attacks Offer As Pure Propaganda

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (INS).—Russia tonight proposed a five-power non-aggression pact banning the use of atomic weapons and limiting all armaments in the interests of "strengthening the peace"—a proposal which the state department immediately labeled "pure propaganda."

Nikolai Shvernik, president of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, suggested to President Truman that the U.S., Great Britain, France, the Soviet Union and Communist China enter into a pact which other "peace-loving nations" could then join.

The Communists proposed:
1. A Big Five peace pact.
2. The prohibition of atomic weapons with "inspection" after such prohibition.

3. A limitation of all armaments to end all armament races.
4. An end to "discrimination with regard to the Soviet Union on the part of American authorities."

LIMITED INSPECTION
Russia has previously said it would accept "inspection" on the prohibition of atomic weapons, but has insisted that such inspections be periodic and only on declared facilities.

The United Nations, however, has insisted that inspections be undertaken by special U.N. inspection teams, that the inspections be made at any time and over all atomic facilities whether declared for peaceful or war purposes.

State Department officials said the latest Russian proposals still offer no concessions on the previous Soviet stand.

Shvernik told President Truman that the projected Russian pact would "raise the confidence of all peoples in the preservation of peace and, moreover, would permit the possibility of limiting armaments, which lie with all their heaviness on the people's shoulders."

Shvernik is little known outside Soviet Russia.

He authored tonight's Russian note proposing a five-country pact "for the strengthening of peace."

Anglo-Iranian Oil Talks Get Off to Friendly Start

TEHRAN, Aug. 6 (AP).—Anglo-Iranian oil negotiations got off to a friendly start tonight.

The first meeting of Iran's new seven-man negotiating committee and the London delegation of Lord Privy Seal Richard Stokes was held as Iranians celebrated their Constitution Day.

Tank patrols and increased police guards prevented any patriotic rallies breaking into disorder. But outcries against United States intervention in the oil crisis were heard at one gathering.

Averell Harriman, President Truman's special envoy who induced Iran and Britain to tackle negotiations anew, is not taking part in the negotiations.

FRIENDLY ATMOSPHERE
After the 90-minute meeting the delegates told reporters the talks began in a "very friendly atmosphere." No agenda was fixed.

Tomorrow, the parity will begin to get down to real business. Stokes and Harriman will fly in separate planes to Ahadad.

Earlier, both Major Gen. Frederick A. Irving, academy superintendent, and Earl Blaik, head football coach, said they would like to see such an inquiry. The 50 allegedly violated the academy's honor code by cheating on examinations.

FAVORS PROBE
Blaik said he favored a congressional probe "so the true character of those boys and the true relationship of football to life at the academy can be brought before the country."

Gen. Irving told reporters he would "welcome" an inquiry.

In the House of Representatives, Rep. Reid Murray offered a resolution calling for a 30-day cooling-off period before the army discharges any of the cadets.

Blaik, coach at the academy since 1941, would not comment on reports he would resign.

Forecast Different: Clouds Predicted

THE weatherman varied his forecast slightly last night by including predictions of clouds.

But as yet there's no rain in sight. Today is the 55th day without continued rain over southern Vancouver Island, with temperatures forecast at about 68 degrees.

Central Vancouver Island will have sunny weather with temperatures in the 80's.

May Try Again To Get Raise

Victoria carpenters may make another bid for a 25-cent hourly pay boost.

Spokesmen for the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Local 1528 (A.F.L.-T.U.C.), indicated yesterday that they may make a second representation to Victoria Builders' Exchange Ltd.

First representation by the carpenters was rejected.

Assert Troops Nearer Border

KARACHI, Aug. 6 (AP).—A Pakistan spokesman today said that Indian troops are within 10 miles of Pakistan's border, not 20 as claimed by Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Authoritative sources also said India has moved military units into the area opposite Pakistan's Sindh Province in the south.

Nehru has said the troops were put in defensive positions because of talk of a Holy War in Pakistan over Kashmir.

SEATTLE, Aug. 6 (AP).—A four-engine navy patrol plane carried nine men to death today at the mouth of Puget Sound.

Two bodies were recovered within an hour.

Victoria's 1951 voters' list will be opened on September 4, W. P. Wright, assistant city clerk, says.

Registration of new voters will continue until October 31.

Mr. Wright explained that names of persons owning property as of October 31 of this year go on the list automatically. Persons on last year's list who have paid 1951 road and an optical illusion which makes them believe they're on the licenses who were on last year's upgrade.

There are some 15,000 property owners in Victoria. Last year's list contained the names of 18,893 eligible voters.

Grant to Salmon Arm Cut Off by Government

The government will make no further grant to Salmon Arm because of claims that the city and municipality cannot afford to keep their schools open.

Education Minister W. T. Straith yesterday said the question of closing the schools was a purely local matter for the city and municipality to settle among themselves.

The mayor of Salmon Arm has stated schools would close September 30 because of lack of funds to run them. He said school would remain closed until January 1 when funds from the 1952 budget will be available.

The education minister said the government had ordered the rural area of Salmon Arm to keep its schools open because the government pays the bigger share of the budget.

The government will make no further grant to Salmon Arm because of claims that the city and municipality cannot afford to keep their schools open.

Education Minister W. T. Straith yesterday said the question of closing the schools was a purely local matter for the city and municipality to settle among themselves.

Building Unions to Seek Pact Modeled on Alcan Agreement

A master agreement signed by unions and Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd. for the Kitimat project may be the basis of a B.C. master agreement sought by the A.F.L.-T.L.C. building trades unions.

The unions will meet at Vancouver next week to hear a reply from 20 companies to which the proposal has been made.

The proposal is to stabilize working conditions on road work and other heavy construction. At present only engineers and truck drivers have an agreement providing uniform wages and conditions on heavy construction jobs.

Reds Take No Chance On Truce Breakdown

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP News Analyst

The Communists in Korea have demonstrated again they want to take no chances on a complete breakdown of the truce negotiations.

The weekend disruption over a technical matter, the prompt and firm United Nations stand and the equally prompt Communist reaction, adds to the evidence that the enemy is really seeking an end to the fighting.

Whether or not the Communists will feel able, eventually, to meet minimum allied demands for security against a new outbreak remains to be seen. The question has boiled down

Will Cancel British Pact Egypt Says

CAIRO, Aug. 6 (AP)—Foreign Minister Mohammed Salah Eddin said tonight Britain has closed the door to further Anglo-Egyptian negotiations and Egypt will move soon to cancel her 1936 mutual defense treaty with Britain.

Before a cheering chamber, the Foreign Minister delivered a formal reply to charges made by Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison of Britain in the Commons July 30.

Morrison had charged Egypt with taking an uncompromising and irresponsible attitude toward major problems in the Middle East.

GAVE NOTICE EARLIER
Egypt served formal notice last November that it no longer regarded the treaty with Britain as legal.

She expressed hope Britain would recognize Egyptian demands for removal of British troops from the Suez Canal zone and permit the unification of the Sudan with Egypt under rule of King Farouk.

This has not taken place, and Morrison in his speech blasted the Egyptian position that there is no distinction between Sudanese and Egyptian peoples.

A main clause in the treaty is authorization for Britain to maintain troops in the strategic canal zone until 1956.

Facilities Poor in Korea For Treating Civilians

By BILL BOSS
SEOUL, Korea, Aug. 6 (C.P.)—The civilian government, within its limitations, does fairly well. But it comprises officials with a 45-year background of having their initiative blasted.

By themselves they are grossly inadequate, numerically, to the need. There isn't a skilled plastic surgeon, for instance, in the whole of Korea.

No western medical authority even looks at the emergency hospitals desperate welfare officers improvise.

Relief supplies are an army responsibility. The army's U.N. civilian assistance command's procurement agencies make known its needs to the people back home.

Meanwhile, the victim languishes.

There is talk about building modern, well-equipped hospitals, improving the medical curricula of still-closed colleges, installing sewage and water-works systems, constructing well-planned orphanages.

Very good for tomorrow. But today people need food, medicine, surgical care, clothing.

OTTAWA, Aug. 6 (C.P.)—The joint U.S.-Canadian civil defense officials defense committee. It will have selected a special communications system that will be made in integrating the military control centres to communities in the path of hostile aircraft, it was learned today.

They aren't saying much about it though, beyond the fact it was one of several systems considered by experts. There may or may not be an announcement but even if there is, little detail will be given because it might aid sabotage, one official said.

SECOND MEETING
Communications are expected to be among the subjects discussed here tomorrow when top United States and Canadian officials come together for the second time in three months.

Health Minister Martin will head the Canadian delegation. Millard Caldwell, top civil defense man in Washington, will head a group of 18 Americans.

PERRY, Fla., Aug. 5 (AP)—The Emporium in Perry was having a dollar-day sale so it decorated its window with dollar bills 40 of them.

Ship, Plane Propulsion By Atom Said Assured

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (INS).—Atomic energy chairman Gordon Dean said today that the A.E.C.'s operations have virtually assured atomic ship propulsion and flight and have built up an enormous potential for raising the standard of living.

While stating that the nation is hard at work to develop the hydrogen super-bomb and atomic warheads for artillery and guided missiles—the chairman emphasized that all this effort can be turned into constructive channels if world peace is established.

Dean said he is now confident that electricity from the atom and atomic submarines and planes will be achieved eventually.

CAN MELT-DOWN
He added: "It is important to remember that our stockpile of atomic weapons can, in effect, be 'melted down' for power and propulsion purposes if a really stable world peace is achieved."

The chairman said that just as the military need for atomic submarines is making possible the building of an engine, the vast stockpile of atomic bombs may make possible the realization of a large scale of the higher standard of living which atomic energy promises.

"We are much farther along on the submarine reactor (engine) than we are on the aircraft one, but I am sure in my own mind that eventually we are going to have both," he said.

A contract is being let to General Electric to build an atomic plane motor, and it is believed that a way has been found for applying atomic heat to jet propulsion.

Recalls Russo-German Pact

WHETHER it is another crude play in the aptly-named "peace offensive," or a genuine attempt to recede from the belligerent attitude of the post-war years, Russia's proposal now for a five-power pact to bring about limitation of arms and peace is coming late and flying in the face of history. Russia today stands much in the position Germany did when on Aug. 19 and Aug. 23, 1939, respectively, she signed first a trade agreement and then a non-aggression pact with that nation. Germany then was the most intensively armed nation in the world. The Second World War followed within a few days, before the signatures on both instruments had time to fade. Is Russia any more sincere today than Germany was then?

Leaving the resolutions and the pretty words aside, Russia has steadily refused to enter into any discussion for the limitation of arms; deliberately blocked all attempts to outlaw atomic weapons or to place them under world supervision; vetoed the Security Council out of existence; maintained the largest standing army in the world; and pulled down the iron curtain, against repeated overtures from the free world. That is a poor showing on the road to lasting peace. It will require more than words now to convince any nation outside of the Soviet bloc that President Nikolai Shvernik is doing more than doodling on the Politburo's blotter, while pictures of the last parade of armed might in Red Square are still being circulated with paeans of praise in honor of Stalin, the invincible. The invincible what? Peacemaker?

The Buttle Lake Dam

SCARCELY any major power or industrial development was ever undertaken in virgin territory without violent dispute about its effect on the amenities involved. The controversy over Buttle Lake is therefore no new thing. It merely highlights again the traditional divergence between conservationists and power exploiters.

Sometimes, however, there is an alternative one that permits industrial development to go forward without ruining a natural asset of great value. This appears to be the case at Buttle Lake. Where so many experts differ it is not for the hyman to pontificate, but it is claimed that the controversial dam can be located elsewhere without detriment to the expansion of the Campbell River power project.

The issue will be joined tomorrow at Courtenay, when the provincial water rights controller opens hearings on the B.C. Power Commission's application to make use of the Buttle Lake basin. The decision, it need hardly be said, will be a portentous one for Vancouver Island. That means that the factors must be weighed and assessed from all angles.

It is not enough merely that the power commission needs more water storage and that Buttle Lake, in its view, provides the solution. It is not enough that a project should be bulldozed through precious scenic and park property merely to secure the easiest body of water to dam. Dollars and cents are not everything, although if they are then Strathcona Park must be assessed as of great potential value. That to date this area has not been opened up to convenient public access is irrelevant. It will be some day, and there is a solemn obligation on all concerned to see that it is not needlessly sacrificed.

The utter despoliation of the Campbell Lake area should be a warning. It should impress on the power commission that it has a duty to the provincial property—it is worth to back its way through, and that if a feasible alternative site is available then this should be chosen. A few thousand dollars extra cost would be no excuse at all for ignoring the conservationists' arguments.

There is one other facet in the Buttle Lake controversy. Where does the government stand? To date it has been strangely mum on the issue, but it cannot wriggle out of its obligation. Strathcona Park, including Buttle Lake, is public property. It was set aside by order-in-council 40 years ago as a scenic and park land asset, and that trust still holds good. Not even a government agency like the power commission has the right to violate its sanctity without the consent of the senior authority.

Will provincial parks and other conservation officials be allowed to testify at the hearing opening tomorrow? What are the government's views on the subject? These are pertinent questions. If they are not answered correctly and the government permits its trust to go by default it will be mainly responsible should the final decision prove to be the wrong one.

Universal Pensions

APPLICATION by 4,000 people in the Greater Victoria district—and 200 on one day in recent registrations—for the new federal old-age pensions of $40 monthly to start next year, gives some indication of the volume of such applications across the country and of the going costs of the scheme when it is put into full operation. As this is to be the "universal" pension, regardless of means, it can only be expected that the applications will be universal also. Thus the number of pensioners in Canada next year will rise by tens of thousands when these contracts are awarded. Meanwhile little has been said of the financing of the scheme, or what that must inevitably entail. Although in today's living costs, $40 per month is not much, it still is equivalent to the income from $16,000 in Dominion of Canada bonds at 3 per cent interest. The pension scheme starts with no such backing, and for years to come it will be a general charge on federal income.

BUTTLE LAKE

Sir,—On the pioneers of this country, a great responsibility rests and at this time the question of the work of Sir Richard McBride and the Strathcona Park issue needs the arousing of public opinion. Our national heritages are slipping slowly and noiselessly away by selfish exploitation, and it behooves every thinking citizen to raise the note of warning.

The question of "power," savors very much of misuse of power, and our present government should consider well the inheritance of those who follow after us, that we sell not our "birthright for a mess of pottage."

HOSPITAL INSURANCE

Sir,—One of the non-essential amenities of the H.I.S. seems to have an unlimited supply of taxpayers' money to spend. We have been deluged by worthless propaganda re the insurance scheme for several weeks now. It seems the powers that be think they can justify themselves by printing a torrent of vague words, making general statements, and in all, signifying nothing.

It is claimed hospital costs have risen mainly because of labor costs. Since it costs more than 300 per cent for a ward bed today than in 1946, have general labor costs risen 300 per cent?

Have nurses' wages, notoriously underpaid, risen 300 per cent lately? Or have we an army of highly-paid non-productive "experts" in the hospitals today?

It is supposed to cost around $4,000 per year to run a hospital bed. Would the H.I.S. care to publish detailed figures about this cost?

How does the cost of operating under H.I.S. compare with the new D.V.A. hospital?

What does the administration of the scheme cost in comparison with the amounts that actually go for people's hospital bills?

It is claimed $1,480,000 is needed to run new hospital beds. Presumably these beds are needed to take care of the sick of an increased population. Does not an increased population pay more in premiums in any case?

Instead of the H.I.S. feeding us generalities, why not give us the worthwhile facts. It would be much more convincing.

A REMINDER

Sir,—In the August 2 edition of The Colonist you published excerpts from a letter written to the Oak Bay Council criticising a house under construction in the Uplands. As the architect for this house, I would like to reply.

First, that any criticism of the house at this stage of completion is ridiculous.

Second, that the particular criticism of the blank wall totally ignores the problem of the site. To open up this wall would force on the members of the Uplands Golf Club the opportunity of peering into the bedrooms.

Third, concerning the art centres of Europe and America, the principles by which this house was designed had their source on a good part of their development in these same centres.

Fourth, that the house looks like a stable to the critic is a result of the critic's own conditioning.

IN BRANTFORD

Sir,—Visiting in Brantford, Ont., recently I happened to glance out of the door while the garbage trucks were in operation and to my own and the amusement of all residents on the street, two very clean and trim overalled collectors in charge wore black silk top hats jauntily on their heads as they proceeded to lift the garbage cans, empty them and return to the sidewalk. This reminded me of many old prints of English life where workers wore much the same garb. I took a picture of them which is not yet developed.

Victoria can now take a back seat as being the most English city in Canada and hand the laurels to little Brantford.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes—and ships—and sealing was—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

NEVER having had my horoscope read, or given or promulgated, or whatever it is they do with horoscopes,

I have always taken birth months as they come—as accidents to the individual concerned. If I have thought about the subject at all it has been, I fear, mainly to regret that my own particular birth month comes around all too quickly nowadays.

There is, however, or so a Yale professor says, a significance to the month you are born in, or at least to two of them—February and March. If your birthday falls in either of these months you can count yourself among the elite. Babies born in February or March, proclaims the professor in a learned work, "Seasons of Birth, Its Relation to Human Abilities," live longer than babies born in other months and there are more geniuses among them.

Professors are always talking the joy out of life. Whoever was it who declared they were an absent-minded lot? It seems to me they mind far too much.

However, just for fun—or spite, seeing I am not among the chosen—let us poke our noses into this February and March business. Let us cull from the celebrity calendar and see what we shall see. A real genius appears only at rare intervals, so we shall include persons of talent as well.

Let us mix them up a bit to demonstrate our impartiality.

Beginning, say, with Prime Minister St. Laurent. He is one of the select, being born in February, but his predecessor, Mackenzie King, was a child of December, Dickens was a February babe, but Sir Walter Scott an August one. Molotov claims March but Stalin celebrates December. Caruso was February but Gail-Curi is November. Einstein is March, but Isaac Newton was December. General McNaughton is February but Field Marshal Montgomery is November.

Michelangelo came to life in March but Shakespeare squared the account by appearing in April. Chopin entered on the world stage in March but Goethe made his debut in April. Bobby Jones has a March birthday but Harry Vardon had an August birthday. Neville Chamberlain was also March but Winston Churchill is November. Lincoln and Washington both came in February, but Jefferson came in April and Woodrow Wilson in December. Babe Ruth could call February his natal month but Jack Dempsey cites June. Edison was also February but Henry Ford first saw light in July.

For good measure, all of the following appeared otherwise than in February or March: Napoleon, Lloyd George, Hindenburg, Mrs. Pankhurst, Eisenhower, Lord Alexander, Florence Nightingale, the Pitts, elder and younger, and Wallace Beery.

And what does all this prove? Nothing. Celebrities are like statistics, you can pick your figures to suit your argument. I have, I daresay, loaded the dice.

Even so, what would you say now to the professor? I haven't read his book, so maybe this is unfair, nevertheless—

Nor have I checked ages to see what babies live longest, although I believe Gladstone lived to be 89, Bernard Shaw died last year at 94, Tolstoy at 82, and neither of them was born in February or March. If you want more examples you'll have to hunt them up for yourself. I'm tired searching.

And, of course, if I pursue the matter too deeply it may validate the professor's opinion a bit, and since I was a mid-summer baby that would never do at all.

Reporting From Ottawa

EVER since civil defense became a matter of serious government concern, with the warming-up of what used to be called the "cold war," the Cabinet has been inclined to sort out the danger which would threaten Canadians in the event of general hostilities.

Typical has been the semi-reassurance inherent in the oft-repeated statement that Canada might expect only "diversionary attacks" in any World War III.

It's doubtful if the disintegrated atomic remains of 10,000 dead Montrealers or Torontonians would reap any consolation from the fact that the enemy only dropped the atomic bomb as a diversion.

However that may be, the Government seems to have been almost obsessed with a fear of unduly alarming people. Maybe the international situation will work itself out, the Cabinet thought. So let's not get too excited—and above all, let's not excite the population.

Against this line of reasoning one man stood solid as a rock. Tough, razor-sharp Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington—"Fighting Frank" of World War II—had been appointed federal coordinator of civil defense in 1948. He knew war, knew the danger, knew the job to be done before Canada could face the prospect of enemy bombs with even the slightest semblance of equanimity.

As he told me a full year ago, his experience leading Canadian soldiers in battle had shown him that Canadians are made of strong stuff. He always explained to his men as fully as battlefield conditions permitted what was expected of them, and why. He believes his men fought better, more courageously, more steadfastly as a result of having been told the truth about the situations they faced.

There is far too much regional and special pressure put on M.P.'s now without the adoption of this vicious plan. Organized into regional and industrial blocs, voting according to the dictation of some outside lobby, such groups would reduce our parliamentary representatives to the role of mere puppets. Democratic government would become impossible and the party system upon which that government is based would be destroyed.

All we can hope is that the attacking Chinese Red has again over-estimated his own strength like the amplifier in the photo department.

Peron in Argentine schedules a general election for November, but we don't need to wait that long to know the results.

Recently a fine old gentleman was celebrating his 100th birthday with a company of friends, all of whom, save one, were endeavoring to cheer him for another century. But this one lone dissenter would have no part in such foolishness. "Jake," said he to jolly the old century plant, "I don't suppose you'll live to be another hundred?" "Dunno, Horace," replied the life of the party, extending his glass for Worthington contends the same methods will produce comparable results in dealing with the civilian population. Tell the people the truth, he pleaded. Not in an alarmist way, but simply, without euphemisms.

For more than two years Worthington's advice went unheeded. Then his office was moved from under the wing of Defense Minister Claxton to become part of the Department of National Health and Welfare. The minister, Hon. Paul Martin, is a realist. He knows there's a time to talk bluntly—and finally he agreed with Worthington that this was it.

As a result, this week saw the publication of the frankest official statement yet to the Canadian people as a whole—the civil defense manual "Personal Protection Under Atomic Attack." Half a million copies are being distributed. It starts with the premise that we may be A-bombed, and tells the people what they should do now, and when the bomb falls, and afterwards, to ensure that the maximum number in the target area escape death or injury.

There is no talk of "diversionary attacks." Instead, there is calm, frank assessment of the danger, simply pointed out. It is not cheerful reading, for it brings home to you and me things we don't like to think about. But in a way it's reassuring, for it shows the Government isn't sitting out the recurrent crises with its fingers crossed, but is really giving some attention to the problem of keeping us taxpayers on the tax rolls.

We have seen something of the way the bloc system operates in the United States Senate and House of Representatives. Urgently needed and progressive legislation has been held up indefinitely because these blocs put their own selfish interest first and the good of the whole country last. Tremendous sums of public money have been squandered in regional appropriations just because some bloc demanded it as the price of its collective vote on some measure another bloc was pushing. "You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours" all too often has been the guiding policy.

In Canada our aim at least should be to send men to parliament capable of doing their own thinking and big enough to put the good of the country ahead of regional advantage.

Another shot of hard cider. "I feel a dang sight stronger starting my second than I did the first."

Laugh with others, but at yourself.

CANADIAN QUIZZ The Hamilton Spectator invites its readers to try their IQ as good Canadians on these:

When were women granted the right to vote in federal elections?

How many men have served as Prime Minister of Canada?

Under the B.N.A. Act the provinces may not use what form of taxation? (Keep a straight face when answering this one!)

What is the pay of a federal cabinet minister?

The next federal election must be held by when?

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

FRANCE is famed not only in its own opinion but also in the opinion of the world for its logical mind. It is also famed for having anywhere from thirty to forty political parties.

No doubt each of these parties has arrived at its position by some logic or other.

In this day and age, in which miracles of science and technology are being performed on every hand in almost every field of human endeavor, the prestige of logic must be at an all-time high. The dictionary gives several definitions of logic. The first is: "Logic is the science which investigates the principles governing correct or reliable inferences."

This definition covers most of the scientific revolutions of recent years. The atom bomb, for example, was correctly and reliably inferred by a group of gentlemen employing logic.

The second definition of logic is "reasoning or argumentation." When fifty million Frenchmen, who can't be wrong, all start reasoning and argumentation in search of political truth, they splinter into thirty or more groups, almost incapable of cooperating with others, and each convinced of its own logic.

The probability is that logic is a highly commendable science so long as it leaves human nature alone. Human nature is not only not logical but not amenable to logic. And the more logical a political system may sound or appear, such as communism or any of the socialist programs, the less likely is it to serve humanity. Nothing sounded more logical to Hitler, Mussolini and their bully boys than fascism. Nothing seems more logical to Moscow and its bully boys everywhere than communism. The trouble is, those bully boys. As has been so far demonstrated, they aren't quite human.

Blind Pioneer

A 40-YEAR-OLD blind Englishman, Ronald Babonau, is about to undertake a pioneering job of tremendous proportions.

He has been working for the blind in the United Kingdom, but now, undaunted by his handicap, he is setting off to West Africa to look after 300,000 blind people. He is the first regional officer to be appointed in the Colonies by the British Empire Society for the Blind, which was set up by the Colonial Office and the National Institute for the Blind to tackle the problem of the 1,000,000 blind people in the British Colonial Territories. His job, with the help of local governments, societies and other organizations, is to convince West Africans not only of the need to educate and train the 300,000 blind people, but also how adequate medical services can prevent 75 per cent of the eye diseases which now cause needless suffering to thousands of children and adults each year.

In the whole of West Africa he will find only two small schools for the blind. In the Northern Territories "river blindness" is causing whole villages to become deserted and the disease is spreading to other parts of Africa.

Ronald Babonau, whose Huguenot grandparents spell the family name "Babonau", has lived in India where his father was a doctor in the Indian medical service. In spite of, and sometimes because of, his always defective eyesight he has been a farmer, a riding instructor and an announcer on the European service of "All-India" Radio. He enlisted in the Pioneer Corps in 1939 but flashes from exploding bombs left him only a glimmer of sight.

By his own example of what a blind man who is properly trained can accomplish, Babonau will do much to inspire a great social experiment in the African colonies. His work is a part of the United Nations organization's schemes to help the blind all over the world.

A FORSAKEN GARDEN
To a roign of the cliff between lowland and highland,
At the sea-dawn's edge between windward and lee—
Walled round with rocks as an inland island,
The ghost of a garden fronts the sea.
A girdle of brushwood and thorn encloses
The steep square slope of the bottomless bed
Where the weeds that grew green from the graves of its roses
Now lie dead.

The fields fall southward, abrupt and broken,
To the low last edge of the long lone land.
If a step should sound or a word be spoken,
Would a ghost not rise at the strange guest's hand?
So long have their grey bare walls lain quiet,
Trough branches and briars if a man make war.
He shall find no life but the sea-wind's, restless
Night and day . . .

Convention To Choose Primate

A new primate of all Canada will be chosen in Victoria next month during the annual convention of the executive council of the Church of England in Canada.

The executive council, composed of the 30-member house of bishops and the 30-member electoral college, will convene along with other departments of the general synod in the Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall for eight days commencing Sept. 6.

Proctor of the convention will be Very Rev. G. L. Calvert, Dean of Christ Church Cathedral. First to meet.

First to meet on Sept. 6 at 10 a.m. will be the house of bishops who will nominate three candidates for the office of primate. Voting will take place the following day when the electoral college meets. The college may ask for additional nominees to the office however.

The primate must be a member of the house of bishops. Present acting primate of Canada is Most Rev. W. R. Adams, Archbishop of the Yukon, who succeeded Most Rev. George F. Kingston, Archbishop of Nova Scotia, following the latter's death in November of last year.

Most colorful services of the convention will be those held Friday evening, Sept. 7, for installation of the new primate, and the church procession Sunday evening.

ARENA SERVICE

The procession will form at St. John's Church on Quadra and go to the Memorial Arena for a service of witness. Present in the procession will be all members of the council, all clergy of the Victoria diocese of the Church, and all choirs from Anglican churches in the Victoria district. Address will be delivered by Right Rev. Stephen Bayne of Seattle, Bishop of Olympia.

No services will be held in any of Victoria's Anglican churches on Sunday evening. In the afternoon however, special speakers will be present in most of the church's pulpits.

Other events during the convention will be a dinner given by Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace for members of the house of bishops, a laymen's dinner to be addressed by Sir Alexander Clutcher, and a reception by the Lieutenant-Governor for all council members.

Plans Fast Expansion Of Wainwright Camp

EDMONTON, Aug. 6 (CP).—Defence Minister Brooke Claxton said tonight that he intends to "do everything possible" to expedite expansion of the huge army Wainwright camp, 150 miles southeast of Edmonton.

Mr. Claxton, inspecting western Canada military installations, flew to Wainwright today. "To meet immediate needs, much is to be done and I shall see that everything possible is done to expedite this on my return to Ottawa," he said.

trative officer for civil defense in this area.

Mr. Straith said defense training would also be invaluable in case of disaster "such as earthquake or fire."

"This class," he continued, "will be the nucleus of civil defense in this community. In time it will reach out to almost every citizen."

Speaking as chairman of the regional civil defense control board, Mayor Percy E. George said he was satisfied that the civil defense program was progressing well.

Mr. Stein, civil defense co-ordinator for Greater Victoria, emphasized the importance of team work.

One woman in the class is Mrs. Ione Airdall, 737 Linkleas Avenue. She served in the A.T.S. in the Second World War and was in Chelsea during many air attacks.

Mrs. Airdall said she thought everybody should be required to take training.

"The trouble is, anyone who hasn't actually been in an air raid has no idea of its horrors, or the importance of knowing what to do."

Canadian Seen As Great Co-Operative By St. Laurent in Prairie Address

TWO HILLS, Alta., Aug. 6 (CP).—Prime Minister St. Laurent told a crowd of about 1,200 in this Ukrainian-area town today that "Canada is a 'great co-operative' where the government is not always 'pushing the people around'."

In Canada, the people work together for the general good and the government tries to produce the best results for them.

The prime minister said that in Canada there is "room for all of us and room for lots more."

Mr. St. Laurent stopped briefly at Two Hills en route to a public reception at St. Paul, continuing his fact-finding tour of the prairie provinces.

Two Hills, about 75 miles northeast of Edmonton, has a population of about 300. St. Paul is a further 30 miles northeast and has about 1,200 people.

Standing on a platform in the middle of Two Hills' 125-foot-wide main street, Mr. St. Laurent said he was glad to help Ukrainians celebrate the 60th anniversary of the arrival in Canada of the first Ukrainian immigrants.

A brief rain shower fell while the prime minister spoke to the crowd gathered around the small stand and standing on the roofs of the one-storey Main Street buildings.

BERLIN, Aug. 6 (INS).—Communist youths by the thousands defied Red discipline today and slipped away from the world youth festival in the Russian sector to enjoy American entertainment and food in West Berlin.

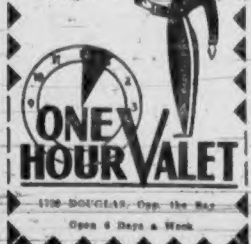

The East Berlin festival went into full stride after its opening yesterday with a program of national pageants, sports competitions and propaganda meetings.

But festival officials were openly disappointed over the attendance showing. Festival leaders claimed originally that 2,000,000 youths from 97 countries would take part in the week-long activities.

Two Plan Falls Descents Despite Red Hill's Death

READING, Pa., Aug. 6 (AP)—A 39-year-old war veteran tonight declared his intentions of going over Niagara Falls in the same kind of make-shift rubber boat which brought death Sunday to William (Red) Hill.

Hill was killed in an attempt to ride over the Canadian Falls, Phillip A. Wesner, Jr., announced that he had an offer from undisclosed sources of $10,000 to make the attempt.

Wesner, who is a resident of the same kind of flinged-up rubber tubes with which Hill rode to his death.

Wesner is an acquaintance of Major Hill, brother of the killed Red.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 6 (CP) Leslie Sander, 38, New York interior decorator, seems to be still in the running for the Niagara Falls Junkie.

Last week he said he would go over the falls "about the end of the month" in a barrel he had constructed of welded stainless steel.

No retraction has come from him since the death yesterday afternoon of William (Red) Hill, Jr., 38-year-old riverman who perished when his crazy craft collapsed.

CHANGES MIND

Pte. Major Lloyd Hill of the Canadian Army, William's brother, first said he would try the drop next Sunday, then changed his mind.

His mother, in tears, prevailed on him.

"One son is enough," she said. "Red Hill went over the Horse shoe Falls on the Canadian side all right, but not as he planned. His craft, made of 13 rubber inner tubes secured with netting, disappeared within minutes in the boiling cauldron at the foot of the horseshoe, but Hill didn't show up until 16 hours later."

Bonn Pact Problem For Allies

BONN, Aug. 7 (AP)—International experts are studying the possibility of giving West Germany the power to declare war.

That's only one of 39 points affecting Allied-German relations being studied by occupation officials in negotiations to grant the federal republic virtual sovereignty in return for military contribution to western defense.

The task is unprecedented. The West is endeavoring to enlist a defeated country as an equal ally without first signing a peace treaty.

British legal experts say the power to declare war will be needed since if German soldiers are to fight against their government must be able to give them proper belligerent status.

MUTUAL CONSULTATION

A British official said one agreement to be concluded with Bonn will be a pact similar to the Brussels agreement that set up western union. This called for mutual consultation among the signatories on any action that might lead to hostilities.

The 39 points range from the right of a German traffic policeman to stop Allied motorists to the western powers' right to payment of millions of marks by Germans for the upkeep of Allied troops in Germany.

A fundamental Allied consideration is to preserve the right to keep about 300,000 American, British and French troops in the country. Moreover, these troops would not be subject to German law.

The point most likely to cause controversy within Germany is the definition of the ultimate powers to be retained by the Allies. At present, although Bonn has its own government and diplomatic relations with foreign countries, the Allies have a blanket clause in their occupation statute that allows them to take back all government powers whenever they wish.

That clause already is being sniped at by German politicians.

Then his body, badly battered, floated close to the Canadian Maid of the Mist landing. It was recovered this morning.

THOUSANDS WATCH

Yesterday afternoon as the "barrel" came into view, thousands of persons held their breath.

A 16-foot round-bottomed skiff, powered by an old, fly-horse-power outboard motor, moved to the foot of the falls and secured the pieces of the barrel. Hill's brother, Norman, was in the boat with three friends.

They towed it to the landing on the Canadian side and 100,000 who watched learned that the flimsy craft had broken along one side and pitched its occupant into the eddy-filled river.

Hill's mother was at the landing. She broke into hysterical tears and had to be taken to hospital.

Hill was the third person in the last 50 years to die trying to go over the horseshoe.

Charles G. Stephens, a Briton, and George L. Stathakis, a Greek, perished in attempts to make the drop in 1930. Stephens went to the bottom with an anvil he used as ballast and Stathakis was drowned when his barrel sprang a leak.

THREE SUCCESSFUL

But the falls have been ridden successfully. Mrs. Anna Edson Taylor, a schoolteacher, made it in a wooden keg in 1901. Bobby Leach, another Briton, survived the drop in a steel-bound barrel in 1911 and Jean Laussier, a Frenchman, bounced over in a rubber ball in 1928.

Hill was an easy-going man with a charming smile. He had spent all his life on the river, serving as a tourist guide and working between times as a steelworker. He was married and divorced and had a 12-year-old daughter.

He was a son of the famous William (Red) Hill, Sr., a riverman who was awarded three Humane Society medals for life-saving. The senior Hill was credited with recovering 177 bodies from the river's swirling grip.

On his deathbed he asked William to "look after the river."

Red Hill tried to do just that.

HOQUIAM, Wash., Aug. 6 (INS)—A Hoquiam man who is stationed on Guam with the navy is going to have a dickens of a time getting out because the navy doesn't even know that he's in.

Dr. John Kervell, a physician, wrote here saying that his application for release drew a navy request that he submit a copy of the order which recalled him to active duty a year ago. The navy said it had no record of him being called up.

Son Saved, Parents Say Goodbye

PASADENA, Calif., Aug. 6 (AP)—Little Donny Marton's parents said goodbye today to the four-year-old boy whose life was saved by three delicate brain operations.

Arthur Marton of Archerwill, Sask., Donny's father, must return to his farm. He had to leave the farm immediately when he brought his son to California by bus two months ago after the child's case had been pronounced hopeless.

Mrs. Marton joined them later. Her three other children have been staying with relatives. Donny will be under the care of a woman who brought him to Dr. William T. Grant, Pasadena surgeon who performed the operations.

No Clues Turned Up in Search For Lost Plane, Seven Aboard

Eleven search planes have so far failed to turn up a clue to the Queen Charlotte Airlines Norseman missing since Saturday morning with seven persons aboard on a short flight from Muchalat Arm to Tofino.

Aboard were pilot E. C. Williams, 29, former Victorian now living in Zolotoe, and passengers George Palmer, 32, Sarnia, Ont.; K. Mordridge of Shediac, N.B.; Charles Warner, 18; Reginald L. Brown, 34; Arthur Costley, 63, and Larry Larson, 19, all of Vancouver.

Mysterious light signals reported early Monday were doubted to have come from the missing aircraft.

The R.C.A.F. will have a high-speed launch in the area today.

DEBRIS SIGHTED

"We had a report that debris was sighted near Gore Island Monday but investigation proved that it was nothing more than floating logs and stumps," said the R.C.A.F. spokesman last night.

He explained that mountainous terrain and lack of communication ruled out night flying in the search.

F.O. Peter Gilliam, from group operations in the mainland city, is at Tofino checking reports and helping co-ordinate the search.

Most of the passengers were employed by the Tahsis Logging Company, a firm on the west coast of the island.

The missing plane is believed to have taken has been covered fully by searchers, in addition to a large area on each side of the flight line and nearby inlets.

U.S. Girl Leads Tourney With Four-Under-Par 73

LAVAL, QUEBEC, Aug. 6 (CP)—Mae Murray of Portland, Me., who fired a sensational string of an eagle and three birdies at her first four holes, led the field today in the qualifying round of the Canadian ladies' open golf championship with a four-under-par 73.

The first four places among the 32 qualifiers for the medal play tournament starting tomorrow fell to American girls.

Little Marlene Stewart of Fontenelle, Ont., who won the Canadian closed championship Saturday, led the Canadian aspirants with an 80.

Scores of 90 and better qualified and tomorrow's field will be made up of 26 Canadians and all six Americans who played today.

Three strokes behind Miss Murray was a 76 came Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasset, Ga. Bracketed at 78 were Grace Lenczyk of Hartford, Conn., who won the Canadian open title in 1947 and 1948, and Marjorie Row, an American girl from the Windsor, Ont., Tecumseh club.

Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn., followed Miss Stewart with an 81. Two Montreal girls, Dainty Chisholm of Royal Montreal and Mrs. Peter Patch of Whitlock Club, finished with 82. The sixth American girl in the qualifying round, Polly Martin of St. Clairville, O., and Mrs. J. H. Todd of Victoria were bracketed at 84.

OUTSTANDING PLAY
Miss Murray's 36-37, matched with a men's 36-36 par over the Laval layout, was an outstanding par-busting performance, especially when compared with the absence of a par round in the closed championship just ended. Miss Murray would have been higher up among the leading qualifiers but for lapses in putting. At the par-five third she was on the green with her second and putting for an eagle with a 36-footer.

She was short four feet and then failed to drop it for a birdie, winding up with a par-five. It was almost the same story at the 11th with another three putts.

Leading scores follow:
Mae Murray, Portland, Me., 36-37, 73.
Mary Lena Faulk, Thomasset, Ga., 36-38, 74.
Grace Lenczyk, Hartford, Conn., 36-38, 74.

Polly Martin, St. Clairville, O., 36-48, 84.

Happy Chandler Assails Major League "Barons"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (INS).—A. B. (Happy) Chandler, deposed high commissioner of baseball, told Congress today that the major leagues should be re-shuffled and declared there are some club owners "the sport could do without."

The former senator blasted baseball "barons" and said that any man would be "stupid" to take the commissionership under existing rules. He asserted that some of the new club owners "don't even know where first base is."

Chandler, testifying in a house subcommittee probe of baseball's monopoly aspects, declared it is "inconceivable" that the 16 team league should remain the same after half a century.

He did not say what cities should be deprived of their franchises nor which minor league clubs should be "promoted." He conceded that a new deal would be tough to get since all club owners would have to agree to such changes.

Chandler outlined three changes which he said the new commissioner should demand. They were:
1. To allow election and reelection of the diamond "barons" by a simple majority of the 16 major league club owners instead of the three-fourths rule now in effect.
2. Complete baseball authority for the commissioner, which would in effect restore the power given to the late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, described by Chandler as "the right to rule without a rule."
3. The commissioner should have full authority to fire as well as hire the secretary and treasurer of the organized baseball setup, because, said Chandler, "if the owners get a stooge in there you've got trouble."

Chandler backed the player reserve clause which has been a point of argument in the hearings, but said that either the commissioner or some other authority should be allowed to settle salary disputes.

Macken, Rochon Score Cup Play Shutout Win

MONTREAL, Aug. 6 (CP)—Canada's Brendan Macken and Henri Rochon breezed past Cuba's Garrido brothers in straight singles sets today to give the Dominion its first shutout win 5-0 in Davis Cup tennis play since entering the international competition in 1913.

Macken, Canada's No. 1 tennis man, scored his second singles victory in the first of three sets.

The one-hour match took 12 minutes to play. Macken's 25 placements against 13 by the Cuban told the story.

In the fourth singles match, Canada again ruled supreme. Rochon, 28-year-old French-Canadian, didn't get a hair out of place in his convincing win over Orlando.

In placement play, Rochon scored 22 and Garrido, 19.

Macken's powerful backhand was working to near-perfection as he sailed through the Cuban.

He repeatedly scored with baseline and sideline placements which worried the junior Cuban champion.

Reynaldo managed to score with terrific forehand blasts when he worked close to the net but this rarely happened as Macken's blistering forehand held him deep in the grass courts.

ASBESTOS in action

Back in the 1870's a man of far vision saw the tremendous possibilities in the practical, indestructible natural asbestos. He visualized a perfect building material and revolution of every kind. He saw parking and broke through the world's worst burning furnace.

He was H. W. Johns, co-founder of Johns-Manville. Today, many of his ideas have been achieved and even surpassed thanks to modern research. In the transportation field alone, for example, semi-trucks, buses, locomotives, big planes, heavy trucks and comfortable automobiles, all depend on asbestos. Yes, the magic asbestos is an important part of our modern life.

Easterners Submerged By Marylebone Eleven

OTTAWA, Aug. 6 (CP).—England touring Marylebone Cricket Club eleven put on its greatest show of its Canadian tour so far today dismissing an Ottawa Valley team for 69 runs and going on to amass a total of 429.

A large crowd under sunny skies stayed until the last ball was bowled in this third game of the M.C.C. tour. The visitors won their opening game in Montreal against a Quebec team 144 to 33 Saturday and played to a draw with an Ottawa Valley Cricket Council team here Sunday. The Sunday scores were:

M.C.C. 303 for seven declared and O.V.C.C. 114 for six.

Today it was another O.V.C.C. team which took on the visitors. The result was that M.C.C. offcally won by nine wickets. But for the benefit of spectators, the innings was continued until stumps were drawn, by which time the M.C.C. had gathered a total of 429.

In the M.C.C. innings, W. G. Keighley, yesterday's centurion, became associated with J. R. Thompson and gave one of the most magnificent exhibitions ever seen on a local field. Thompson scored 126, hitting six 6's and six 4's. Keighley had

TWO SMALL SAILORS
The three new, strange bad foxes were so surprised at hearing Bosun shout outside their den that for a moment they did not know what to do. Then Mr. Clarence Fox, the daddy of Reginald, the little fox, asked:
"Did you hear a voice, Matilda?"
"Yes, Clarence, I did," answered the mother fox.
"Don't pay any attention to it, daddy," said Clarence. "It was only an echo in the woods."
"Avast and belay!" Shiver my voice!" barked Bosun. "And I am more than a voice! I am here in person!"
"So am I!" barked Mr. Turfbox, the big English bulldog. "And we jolly well are coming in that den and rescue Uncle Wiggly!"
"I'm in on that!" bleated Uncle Butter the goat who kept a grocery store. "And if you don't let Wiggly go, I'll come in and mince you all so fine with my horns that you can be stuffed into one of the holes of this piece of Swiss cheese! How will you like that? Baa-a-a-a!"
"Quick, Clarence!" barked Mrs. Fox. "Roll a big stone in front of our front door so these rescuers can't get in to have Uncle Wiggly!"

"That's what I'll do, Matilda!" "I'll help!" offered Reginald, the little fox. But before the foxes could roll a stone in the entrance to the den to keep out the rescue-party, Bosun, Mr. Turfbox and Uncle Butter had rushed in the den.
"Oh, I am so 'fraid to see you!" said Uncle Wiggly, happily.
"We are glad to be here, Cap'n Wiggly sir!" barked Bosun.
"We followed your paw marks in the dust to the picnic grounds right to this den!" bleated Uncle

"I think so myself," said the rabbit gentleman. "Oh, it was a most unpleasant adventure!"
Then he and his friends hurried back to the picnic grove. The three shaken foxes ran far away. And Nurse Jane was so happy to see Uncle Wiggly again that she gave him a big dish of ice cream.
Soon all was peace and happiness aboard the raft as the sun went down. Uncle Wiggly decided to stay where they were for the night.

Scenes as Prospect Lake Fire Spreads Over Hundreds of Acres

Blazing sun was all but obliterated by smoke from the fire in Prospect Lake district yesterday as photographer

This picture shows covered telephone and power lines, holding still-smoking broken poles after fire crossed Munns Road.

Morrie Simpson, Sidney, spends few minutes refreshing himself with cool drink of water after hours on firelines.

Doctor Needed At Sooke

A resident doctor is needed to serve the village of Sooke, officials of the provincial health department said yesterday.

Sooke's resident doctor left the community some time ago. Meanwhile, attempts still are being made to obtain a resident doctor to serve Gulf Islands residents living on Galiano, Mayne, North and South Pender and Saturna Islands. These islands have been without a doctor since the end of May.

Health department officials explain that no agency has any power over the placement of physicians. It is up to the community involved to interest a doctor in starting a practice.

At present the Gulf Islands Ratepayers' Association is attempting to obtain a doctor through the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Plant Men Honor Victorian

Members of the Washington State Nurserymen's Association arrived here yesterday for a mid-summer meeting at the Empress Hotel.

They held a dinner last night to honor veteran Victoria florist Richard Layritz and presented him with a clock in appreciation of his work as one of the founders of the nursery industry in the Pacific Northwest.

Speakers included W. B. Plough of Wenatchee, Wash., and Bert Miller of Milton, Ore.

ELECTION TODAY

An election of officers will be held today in addition to a demonstration by city parks foreman Clifford Hare on how a hanging flower basket is put together.

A talk on plant quarantine regulations will be given by H. F. Olds, chief agricultural inspector for the federal department of agriculture.

President of the association is L. H. McGuire, Tacoma.

More Students Attending Star Lectures

Total enrollment in the summer astronomy courses sponsored by the Victoria Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada jumped to 181 last night as 27 new students signed up.

Enrollment was held at the second session of the five meetings scheduled. First four meetings consisted of lectures at Victoria College and the fifth will be a visit to the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

Speaker at last night's lecture was Dr. K. O. Wright of the observatory staff who described the earth's position in the universe and the research done at the observatory on variable magnitude stars.

Lecturer at next Monday's meeting will be F. T. Nash of Canadian Services College at Royal Roads. He will speak on "The Solar System."

After each lecture telescopes are set up on the college grounds and class members are allowed to study the various constellations.

Uncontrolled Through Tree Tops

Youths Carry Water to Parched Firefighters

By TREVOR COLLINS

Exhausted, teen-aged boys trudged faithfully up the long fire trail from Makby Lake to the core of the flaming forest near Prospect Lake yesterday afternoon carrying heavy water bags for the thirsty firefighters.

We met them coming back from the fire after spending more than two hours near the heart of the blaze that ran uncontrolled through the tree-tops three times.

On the way up the small mountain with Sammie Freeman, Joseph Robbins, everything looked under control. In fact, every firefighter we met, busy as they were, thought they had the blaze beaten.

Coughing through smoke,

Chemainus Tightens Water Curbs

CHEMAINUS, Aug. 6. Water restrictions for Chemainus and the district served by Butler Lake, imposed last June, have been tightened.

Effective Aug. 1, watering hours were limited to 7 to 9 p.m. on alternate days for lots facing north and east and those facing south and west. North Chemainus, whose water supply is governed by its own water committee and has first to be pumped to a delivery tank has in the past been the hardest hit by sprinkling restrictions.

The new regulations are due to the lake's record low level. A continued dry spell, unless restrictions are enforced, would endanger residential areas and the Chemainus division plant of the H. R. McMillan Export Company in case of fire.

While no actual lake readings were available, residents on the lakeshore say water levels which had been in nearly four feet of water in early June are now almost high and dry.

Buttle Lake Probe Draws Applications

Between 30 and 40 persons have notified the provincial Water Rights branch that they wish to appear at hearings on the controversial question of damming Buttle Lake.

Hearings will centre on the application of the B.C. Power Commission to develop additional hydroelectric power at Elk Falls on Campbell River by damming the lake to create a storage reservoir.

Sportmen and conservationists oppose the plan, favoring as an alternative the damming of Upper Campbell Lake.

tain that runs on the west side of Prospect Lake, tongues of flame were leaping 60 feet in the air while firefighters did their best to shoot the flames above the road.

We were out as flames started to crown the forest top faster than a man could run. Firefighters behind us started backfires. It looked like a trap so we moved out.

Two firemen gave a hand and helped to transport the heavy saw to the end of the trail.

We then drove along Prospect Lake Road to a small logging road on the north side of the fire.

We left the car and walked to the apex of the blaze. It was burning near a freshly cut road. There were no firefighters. Where the fire met the road the forest was scorched and green. Fire Chief Joseph Law of Saanich was on his way to the road to inspect that side when I left.

Council, Spare That Tree

Robert Jackson, 1201 Rockwood Avenue, has presented a petition to the city council asking that a tree be spared removal if an oak tree growing along Gonzales Road is stopped.

In a letter to council, Mr. Jackson said the tree was 28 feet wide, while the tree putted only six inches into the street.

"Our fathers planted Victoria with many beautiful trees and made it one of the most beautiful cities on the American continent but this is not the first time vandals on the council have destroyed trees on our lovely streets," declared Mr. Jackson.

He offered to supply the city free of charge with a tree to replace the one removed. He said he would supply the trees in the autumn.

Crews Fight 29 Blazes In District

Twenty-nine fires are burning in Vancouver Forest District caught by 645 men according to the B.C. Forest Service.

Two men, fires which broke out on Indian reserve property near Duncan were quickly brought under control.

Throughout the province, 163 fires are reported being checked by 2,547 firefighters.

In the Kamloops district 17 of the 81 fires burning are out of control. Most of the blazes are three on the Bonaparte River, about 55 miles west of Kamloops, two at Grand Lake and one west of the 100 Mile House on the Caribou highway.

A total of 778 men are fighting fires in the Kamloops district. In the Nelson district 1,120 men are fighting 27 fires, three of which are out of control on Santa Rosa Creek, McRae Creek and Toby Creek.

Elsewhere in the province, six fires are burning at Prince Rupert, and 20 in the Prince George district.

Distributors Oppose Boost In Milk Price

A Victoria distributor said last night that distributors here do not want a price increase in milk and an additional 10 per cent to keep the present prices stable.

"We are suffering enough now with milk at the price it is," he said.

He didn't think step-by-step de-liveries would present much of a problem, but he said he was not sure about the future.

He said that since the first graduation examinations held in 1911, nearly 400 officers had been graduated from Royal Roads with no black marks on their records.

Examinations are conducted in exactly the same way as those of any university," said Professor Brown. "We do everything we can to make them fair and proper."

A spokesman said the examinations were thoroughly supervised but admitted that the few cases would not stop to criticism.

He said that as in any institution of its kind, there might have been the "odd individual case" of cheating, but on the whole the record was good.

Professor Brown has been an instructor at the services college since its inception in 1942 as a naval cadet training school.

Dismissal of 90 West Point cadets last week for cheating during examinations shocked the U.S.

Tug Firms Suffer In Log Shortage

Vancouver Island tug companies report they have been hit hard by the forest closure.

Booming of log men camps stopped almost as soon as the closure was announced July 12. There are no more supplies for reserve booming waters.

M. W. L. Co., based on the Pacific coast, said it had a good supply of water, but the log men camps are closed and the log men are not working.

Officials were of the opinion that the log men camps are closed and the log men are not working. They are not working because of the forest closure.

Services College Has Clean Record

Nothing like the West Point examination cheating scandal has ever happened at the United Services College at Royal Roads, a spokesman for the college said yesterday.

"We've had a very clean record in the colleges since year has been," said Professor Lorne Brown, director of studies.

He said that since the first graduation examinations held in 1911, nearly 400 officers had been graduated from Royal Roads with no black marks on their records.

Girls' Drill Team Popular at Regatta

—AROUND TOWN—

The Victoria Girls' Drill Team proved so popular at the recent 45th Kelowna International Regatta that it put on 10 displays for the enthusiastic crowds instead of the scheduled three.

Drill team director Capt. Norman Foster said the team arrived at 3 a.m. Thursday and appeared at 3 p.m. and 9 p.m. that day. On Friday the girls presented their drill display twice again.

On Saturday, although there were no display programs, the team appeared five more times, answering hundreds of requests to the regatta committee.

Commenting "one of the most enthusiastic responses we have ever had," Capt. Foster said the team appeared Saturday evening on the floating stage as part of the AquaRhythms of 1951 show.

Meet After Corresponding for 12 Years

A school lesson 12 years ago has brought about the meeting of two friends who have corresponded all that time. One day Grade X students in a Windsor, Ontario, school were instructed to write a letter to an unknown Grade X student in another part of the country. The letters were bundled up by the teacher and mailed to Victoria. The mail man brought them to Victoria High where they were distributed, one to each student in Grade X. The letters had to be answered, although only one letter was necessary. However, two girls kept up the correspondence and through the years have at least written one letter every month. They are Miss J. W. Birtwistle, 235 Oakdale Avenue, the former Grade 10 Lane and Miss Helen Popov of Windsor. This week the two girls met in Victoria on her first trip home. They were both very happy to see each other and to read the letters they had written each other.

Couple Exchange Vows At Centennial United

Miss Norma Duffield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Duffield, 521 Walter Avenue, exchanged nuptial vows with Mr. Leslie Brian Goodwin before the Rev. Dr. F. Hoffman in Centennial United Church on Saturday evening.

The bride's gown was styled with a high collar and full ruffled skirt of satin. Her finger ring was mounted over her gown and she carried a bouquet of red roses and carnations. Her something old and something new were a Missan bouquet over 60 years old belonging to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. G. Smith.

Mrs. P. H. May, matron of honor, wore a pale orchid nylon gown and carried cream gladioli. Little Margaret Cesford, flower girl, was dressed in pale yellow and carried a colonial bouquet of mauve hebe gladioli. Mr. Archie Lowden was best man and Mr. Rex Viner and Mr. Len Humphreys, ushers.

Pitch-and-Putt Course Gets Rezoning Approval

Sanich council last night voted in favor of rezoning property on Burnside Road near the Colquhoun River for use as a pitch-and-putt course.

The decision came following a public hearing preceding the regular council meeting. No objection appeared in opposition to the proposal.

Application for rezoning of the property for commercial use was made by the Burnside Road Development Co., Ltd.

A recommendation by Fire Chief Joseph Law to install a fire siren at the corner of Quadra Street and Lodge Avenue was referred back to the chief for an estimate of cost.

THROUGH STOP SIGN

The chief's report said the corner was extremely dangerous as it was frequently used by Sanich fire trucks answering calls. The trucks must go through a stop sign across Quadra at high speed.

The report said there had been several accidents in the past.

Beauty and You

BY PATRICIA LINDSAY

A woman who has not exercised for months cannot hope to begin a strenuous refashioning course before toning up her muscles. These can be done at home.

Exercise 1. Same position as in Exercise 2. With a swing of the body try to touch left foot with your right hand, return to starting position and then swing and try to touch right foot with left hand. Do this swinging with ease and grace. Do not hold yourself stiffly. Give in to the exercise. Remember you are trying to limber your body so get some rhythm into your movements. Repeat five to 10 times.

Exercise 2. Stand in good posture, feet far apart. Pull in your

Easy does it is a rule of a prominent exercise salon, so I'll pass it on to you! Exercise each day for 10 or 15 minutes for 10 days. Then begin your more arduous routine. Here are a few toning suggestions:

Exercise 1. Turn on the radio to dance music! With an imagined partner or holding a pillow for one, dance around the room and sing. Then drop the pillow, let your arms and hands float to the rhythm. This will begin to ease you.

Exercise 2. Stand in good posture, feet far apart. Pull in your Exercise 3. Same position as in Exercise 2. Do not hold yourself stiffly. Give in to the exercise. Remember you are trying to limber your body so get some rhythm into your movements. Repeat five to 10 times.

Exercise 4. Sit down on floor with legs far apart, arms held at sides, shoulders level, keeping your head back, swing your right arm around to touch the toes of your left foot. Then swing far to the right and touch toes of right foot with left hand. Swing 10 or 12 times. Your free arm should swing around back of your body.

Exercise 5. Lie on your back, with arms out at sides in comfortable position. Raise right leg slowly with heel pointing and toes turned toward your face. This will pull in the back of your knees. Do not strain too much, but each time you repeat the exercise, force the leg higher. Eventually it will reach a right angle to your body. Do likewise with left leg.

Death Accident, Jury Declares

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury, investigating the sudden death of two-month-old Deborah Joan Humberstone, 2131 Ferndale Road, Aug. 1.

The child was found dead, face down, in her crib at 8 p.m. last Wednesday by her 17-year-old mother, Phyllis Humberstone.

An autopsy, performed by Dr. R. D. G. McNeely at the request of Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart, showed suffocation to be the cause of death. The jury also learned that although the child had been gaining weight, she was not in the best of health for her age.

A rider to the jury's verdict suggested that a greater care should have been taken by the mother to ensure that the child was not sleeping face downward. The father of the child is believed to be in the Royal Canadian Navy.

Eagles Retain Hart Trophy After U.S. Win

Eagles retained possession of the John Hart Trophy for international competition between amateur baseball teams by taking both ends of a two-night doubleheader at Port Angeles on Saturday. Scores were 21 and 6-2.

The victories gave the Eagles the best-of-five series, 3-1. They divided a pair of games with the Americans at Victoria the previous weekend.

Scout Forbes buried the Eagles to victory in the opener with a two-hit performance. Both his singles came in the third inning when Port Angeles scored its run.

Eagles spotted Don McKinnon with a four-run lead in the first inning of the nightcap and he scattered five hits to retain the margin.

Lewis Wins Log Race: Error 2.54 Per Cent

MARINE AND TRAVEL NEWS

By RAY WORMALD

With an error of only 2.54 per cent, David Lewis, in his cruiser Norron, captured top honors in the Capital City Yacht Club's seventh annual predicted log cruise from Canoe Cove to Friday Harbor, Saturday.

Warren Waterton, a comparatively new member of the boating organization, took second place in his Lazy Boy, with an error of 4.19 per cent.

Third and fourth places were taken by Cyril Connerston's Tum Tum and Herbert Rogers' Jo Mar, respectively.

The race ended at 2 p.m. Saturday, and the boatsmen and their crews spent the afternoon at Friday Harbor. In the evening they went to nearby Deer Harbor.

TROPHY AWARDED

Late Saturday night the Halls silver cup, a perpetual trophy, was presented to the race winner. Second place, Dr. Waterton, was presented with a barometer, and third prize was a navigational director.

The booby prize—a mounted goat's head—went to Jesse Martin, Bellingham Power Boat Association. It marks the third consecutive year that a Bellingham contestant has taken the trophy.

"It was a highly successful affair," remarked Victor Griffin, commodore of the Capital City Yacht Club. "The course was a little rough, but there were no breakdowns. It was just choppy enough to make it interesting." The return trip, Sunday afternoon, was made over dead calm waters.

RESULTS

Results, with percentage errors were:

Norron, David Lewis, 2.54; Lazy Boy, Warren Waterton, 4.19; Tum Tum, Cyril Connerston, 7.16; Jo Mar, Herbert Rogers, 7.83; Northstar, Stuart Skillings, 8.30; Awaywego, Monty Porter, 8.53; Thetis, Leonard McKenzie, 8.55; Daisy, Walter Brooks, 9.35; Zanda, Norman R. Hill, 9.39; Saga, Dr. C. N. Westwood, 9.79; Killian, John Johnson, 10.10; Midnight Sun, James Ormond, 13.54; Siesta, Perry Pitt, 14.28; Jolly Roger, Ralph Hannum, 15.90; Mavon, Alfred Pednault, 18.24; Ketcheney, Melvin Shaw, 26.34; Jamboe, Jesse Martin, 30.37. (The last four are all members of the Bellingham Power Boat Association.)

OPEN REGATTA

All boat owners of the area are invited to participate in the Royal Victoria Yacht Club's two-day open regatta to be held August 18 and 19 at Cadboro Bay.

There will be races for everything from "A" class cruisers to Snipes and "X" class craft. A dance will be held at the club house on the night of August 18 and a tea the following afternoon. All skippers, both club members and visitors, must register with the club secretary before 5 p.m. August 17. The secretary's office is open between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. daily except Mondays.

Prizes to winners of various races will be presented by H. A. Wallace, commodore of the yacht club.

ARCTIC VOYAGE

Mv. Snowbird II, the R.C.M.P.'s Arctic supply ship, has left Tuktoyaktuk, near the mouth of the McKenzie River, on a 4,800-mile trip to Vancouver.

The voyage will be made by way of the Alaska north coast in Beaufort Sea, Bering Strait and the Pacific, and will last between four and six weeks.

The 1,158-ton vessel is used to supply northern R.C.M.P. detachments, and carries a crew of 18. Fourteen of them are marine personnel from air force marine stations at Patricia Bay and Dartmouth. She is commanded by Squadron Leader S. C. N. Burridge of Vancouver.

AT PEARL THURSDAY

The destroyers Athabaskan and Crusader will reach Pearl Harbor Thursday. There they will part company, with the Athabaskan continuing to Korean waters for her second tour of operations with the United Nations.

Crusader, accompanying the war-bound warship in a training program, will return to Esquimalt late this month.

NOOTKA TO GET MAIL

Arrangements have been completed by the Fleet Mail Office at Esquimalt for the destroyer Nootka to receive mail while sailing to Halifax. She left here last Saturday.

Closing date at the Fleet Mail Office here for the destroyer's mail (air) is 4 p.m. Thursday to arrive in Balboa August 14. All surface mail and air mail received after that date will be dispatched directly to Halifax.

Up to today, nine months after passing through the Panama Canal on her way to the Korean war zone, the Nootka has received

David Lewis skipped his cabin cruiser Norron to victory in Capital City Yacht Club's seventh annual predicted log cruise from Canoe Cove to Friday Harbor, Saturday. He is seen, right, accepting coveted Halls silver trophy from Victor Griffin, commodore of C.C.Y.C.

CRUISE SET

The frigates Beacon Hill and Antigonish are completing arrangements for their second training cruise to Pearl Harbor. They will leave Esquimalt tomorrow, spend four days there and return August 31. Aboard each warship will be 50 naval and University Naval Training Division cadets.

The cruiser Ontario left Monterey, Calif., yesterday on her homeward voyage. She will arrive here Thursday. The warship is on the fourth in a summertime series of Pacific coast training cruises with a number of new sailors aboard.

Ship Unloads Japanese Tuna in Victoria

By late today about 300 tons of frozen tuna from Japan will have been unloaded from holds of the American freighter Flying Scud at Ogden Point docks.

The 10,000-ton vessel, carrying the latest in refrigeration facilities and operated by the Pacific Far East Line, arrived here early yesterday morning. The big fish were picked up at Shimizu and Yokohama, Japan, and are being taken to the cold storage plant of B.C. Packers Ltd. here.

An additional 300 tons of frozen fish will be taken to Vancouver.

While sailing from Japan to this coast the ship was kept at a temperature of about 10 degrees below zero.

INTERESTING PASSENGERS

There were two interesting passengers aboard the ship. Miss Chelko Ando from Tokyo is on her way to Toronto. A scholarship student, she will spend three years studying there before returning to Japan to enter missionary service.

From Vancouver the ship will proceed to Seattle, and disembarassing there will be a young Japanese doctor who will study medicine at Salt Lake City. He will return to his homeland to teach at the University of Tokyo. The Flying Scud will leave Victoria tomorrow morning for Vancouver.
